DID YOU KNOW?

"Moon Trees" were grown from seeds taken to the moon during the Apollo 14 mission in early 1971. Stuart Roosa, a former U.S. Forest Service smoke jumper, orbited the moon in the command module 'Kitty Hawk' with over 2000 tree seeds from five different trees. The U.S. Forest Service wanted to see if the moon's orbit caused the seeds to grow differently back on earth. Many of the seeds were successful and grew into viable seedlings. Most were given away in 1975 and 1976 to many state forestry organisations to be planted as part of the nation's bicentennial celebration. The Moon Trees continue to flourish and after over forty years there is no discernible difference.
